EXPLOSION KILLS 2 AT PONCA CITY PLOTS CAUGHT

ACCUMULATED GAS IN BASEMENT OF CAFE EXPLODES KILLING TWO AND INJURING SEVEN.

By the Associated Press

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 8.—Two persons are dead, three are suffering from serious injuries in a hospital and four sustained minor injuries as a result of an explosion in the kitchen of the Ferndale Cafe building at 12:30 o'clock this morning that caused property damage estimated at $75,000.00. The building which housed the cafe, with a rooming house above it, was completely wrecked, and a building next door was badly damaged by the explosion, while many windows in the immediate vicinity were shattered. C. W. Milner, a cook in the cafe, and Miss Viola Ammann, waitress, received injuries from which they died a short time later. R. L. Hawkins and Henry Grady, negro both dishwashers, and C. W. Bunch, a Ponca City street department employee, received serious injuries. The latter was struck by flying debris, while standing outside the building. Physicians, however, hope for the recovery of all three. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Patton, who were staying at the rooming house on the second floor, were slightly injured.

City fire department officials today reiterated their belief that gas accumulated in the basement of the cafe from a leaking service pipe and ignited from the fire in the cafe kitchen, causing the explosion.

MICKIE SAYS

WEATHER FORECAST

Unsettled tonight and Friday. Very little change in temperature.

Take him off, men," cried Sam Brick, a Russian from Stratford, this morning when the strong arm of Charley Dungey, of Braden's Grocery on West Main, struck him with full force in the face.

The fight was caused, according to Mr. Dungey, because of remarks Mr. Brick had made. Mr. Dungey says this has been going on for some time and he stood it as long as he felt like it. This morning Mr. Brick came into town and when the two men met on West Main started a free for all fist fight. The Russian was perfectly willing to fight, according to witnesses, until hostilities actually began when he yelled "kamerad."

Mr. Dungey went to the mayor and plead guilty to a charge of fighting and was assessed a fine of $8.75. Mr. Bricks' case has not been tried.

REVOLUTIONARY PLOTS CAUGHT

FIVE ARRESTS MADE IN WHAT OFFICERS SAY IS BOLD-EST INTRIGUE PLOT IN HISTORY.

By the Associated Press

EL PASO, Tex., April 8.—Five persons are under arrest and information is in the hands of the federal grand jury which may lead to other arrests in connection with what officials say is one of the most pretentious revolutionary plots ever conceived in the border hot-bed of Mexican intrigue.

But for the arrest of a boy and a girl carrying messages to Francisco Villa, by military forces in the Big Bend district, officers admit the plan for the seizure of Lower California and the simultaneous campaign against Sonora, Chihuahua and Sinaloa might have developed into serious proportions.

According to details of the alleged plot, the revolutionaries were to cross into Lower California from the United States, seize arms and ammunition of which there is a big supply, and conduct simultaneous campaigns against Sonora and Sinaloa, while Francisco Villa launched a vigorous campaign in Chihuahua to divert the federal troops from coming to the aid of the state governments in the other commonwealths.

GERMANS AND FRENCH CLASH

REPORT THAT FRENCH TROOPS HAD BEEN ORDERED FROM CITY BY ALLIES STARTED THE TROUBLE.

By the Associated Press

FRANKFORT, April 7.—This afternoon's clash in the Schillerplatz between French troops and the population, resulting in the killing of six Germans and the wounding of some two score others, was followed by a strong display of French military force, which brought about the restoration of order by the time darkness had set in.

It was the rumor that the French had been forced by the pressure of the Allies and the United States to withdraw from the city that started the trouble. The crowd jeered and taunted the French troops and a French officer ordered it to disperse and when the order was ignored a machine gun was brought into play.

The firing attracted a great crowd to the square, completely surrounding the troops. The French then began to bring up reinforcements, four tanks between solid columns of soldiers rolling in ready for action.

The German police aided in the action to restore quiet, quickly stationing groups of men at strategic points to control the crowd.

FIRE CHIEF JONES CONTINUES RECORD

It looks as if 1920 will add other laurels to the record of our popular fire chief, Somer Jones. Those who watched his work last year said it could never be equalled again, but Somer is "from Missouri," so to speak, and he is showing them that it can be equalled.

While the fire loss this year is a little greater than last, the fact must be taken into consideration that there are many more houses here, women have been granted the ballot and many other liberties which makes the risks greater than heretofore.

Last year the Ada Fire Department had 25 calls. The total loss from fire was $880. This year up to the present date there have been 17 calls with losses amounting to about $1000. The most of the calls for the fire department usually come in the late winter when the wind is high and dry.

Somer Jones has been chief of the Ada Fire Department ever since the department was organized 10 years ago. His best year was last year, but his record ever since he has been in the work ahead of any other in the state.

Let's Have a County Hospital

Unless we except hard surfaced roads throughout the entire county, there is nothing this county could do than to take a step ahead that would be more important than voting bonds in the sum of seventy-five or a hundred thousand dollars for the erection and equipment of a county hospital.

It is hard to interest private capital in the hospital enterprise for the reason that the general public knows little or nothing about the institution as an investment.

Furthermore, it is the business of the public to care for such public needs. Then, too, all the physicians of the county can unite on common ground and will co-operate without friction in patronizing the public's hospital.

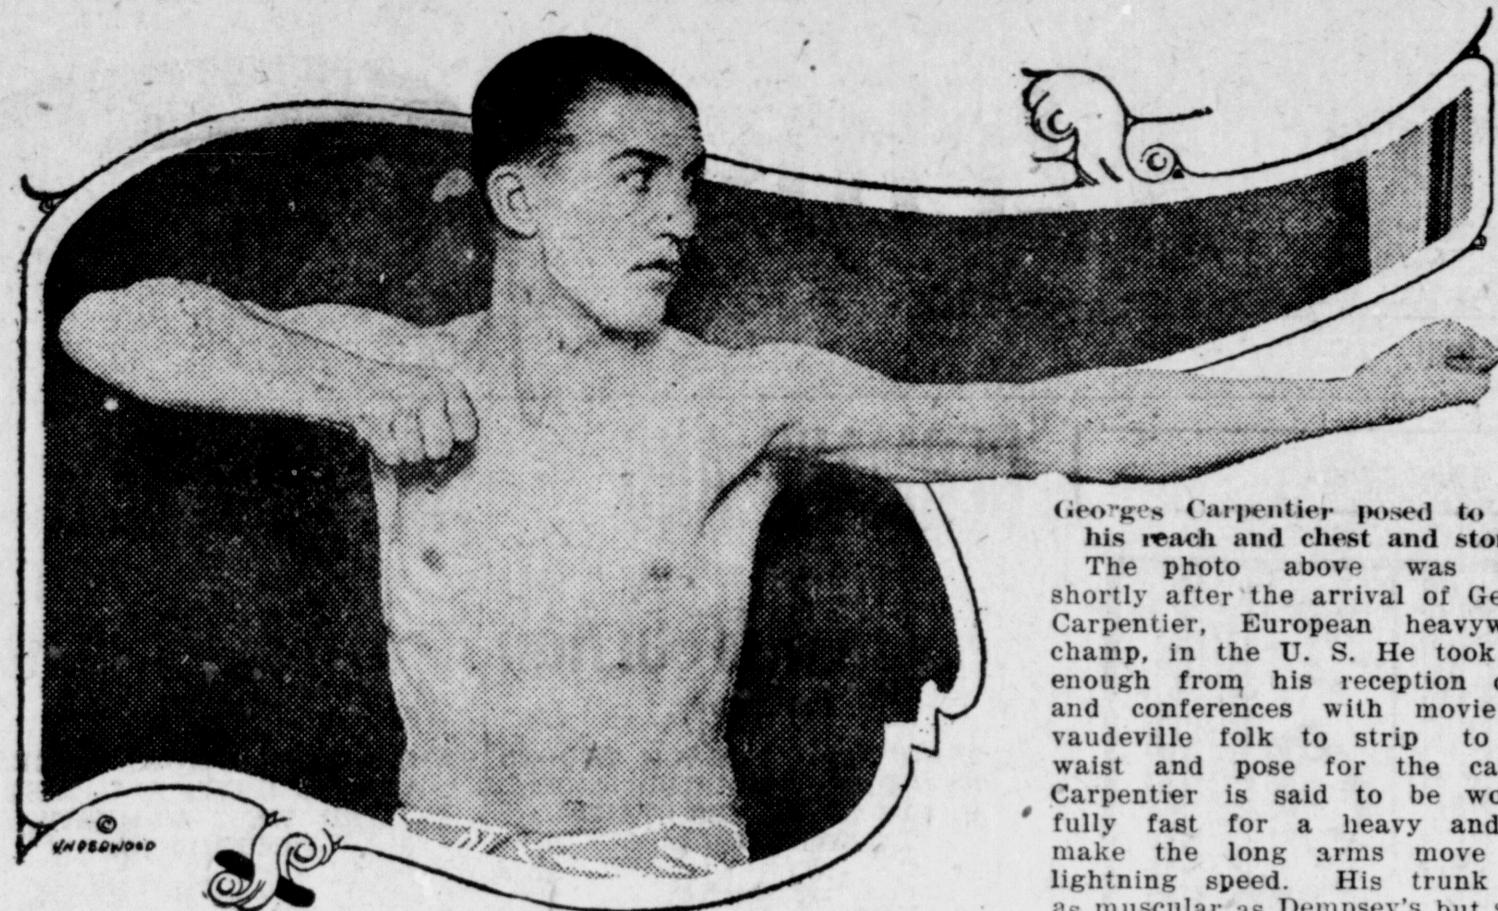

Bryan County has voted and erected an elegant county hospital at Durant for the sum of $75,000, and they are more proud of it than of any other achievement. Many other counties of the state have done so and wouldn't be without their institutions for any consideration.

That the voters of Pontotoc County would vote bonds for a county hospital is a foregone conclusion. The only thing necessary to do is to submit the issue to the voters, and it should be done at the election in August.

Who will take the initiative in this most important matter and set the ball rolling?

Let's have a mass meeting, including all the physicians of the city and county, and get started. Or let the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce get behind the move. It's worth the effort and will prove the best investment the county ever made if carried out.

CARPENTIER SHOWS U. S. SPEEDY ARMS

WAS HOST AT DINNER FOR DEMOCRATS WHERE SCOTT FERRIS WAS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER.

By News' Special Service
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Homer Cummings, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, was host at a dinner last night to a group of leading democrats of the House of Representatives, including Congressmen Scott Ferris, Jim McClintic and Tom D. McKeown of Oklahoma. In introducing Mr. Ferris as one of the principal speakers Mr. Cummings presented the Linton statesman in pleasing and forceful terms, referring to his true worth as a democrat and a man, which brought applause from his colleagues who were present.

After expressing appreciation for the compliment paid him, Mr. Ferris discussed the proposed resolution for separate peace with Germany, now before the House. He said in part: "Under the constitution of the House of Representatives has nothing to do with making peace. That function resides with the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Therefore, I feel perfectly sure that such proposal would merely be an abortive attempt to do something that would not result in anything but folly, if not positive harm."

"If the House of Representatives had power to initiate such a resolution it would be as unwise as it is dangerous. It would be making a separate peace with Germany, an enemy nation, at the expense of every friend with whom we have just fought. I know full well the country craves peace but it is a lasting peace they seek, not a makeshift peace that would result in disaster on every hand. Shall we say that the 50,000 American boys who were killed on the battlefields of France died in vain. Shall we say with a simple resolution, 'we have done, we have concluded, you may go?' Shall we say that the thirty million dollars which this government has expended in war will be dismissed, swept aside and held for naught? Shall we say that the billion, two hundred and fifty million dollars worth of alien property that we now hold to indemnify ourselves against Germany losses shall be sacrificed, surrendered and given back to Germany? Shall we say that although the bottom of the sea is strewn with sunken ships and lost cargoes aggregating more than a billion dollars, that that, too, shall be waived and we shall give Germany a clean bill of health?

"Shall we surrender our standing as a nation to Germany and turn our backs on the nations with whom we have just fought? Can a thoughtful constituency suggest or approve of such a course?

"To me our duty seems clear.

The parties to the war must agree to make peace and it must be done thru the regular constituted channels.

The common sense thing to do is to stand with our associates in the war and make the peace they make. To do otherwise would result in alienating the friendship of our allies. Instead of having the bulk of the world with us, behind us, and supporting us, we would have the 45 nations of the earth that signed the treaty against us. Our prestige as a nation would be gone we would be unfaithful to those American boys sleeping in France, unfaithful to our millions who faced the German hordes, unfaithful to our allies in the war and unfaithful to ourselves.

A resolution such as the one suggested would become the folly of the age.

The debate on the peace resolution begins in the House tomorrow.

Mr. Ferris will speak against it as will other Oklahoma members on the Democratic side of the House.

Salvation Army Home Is Destroyed In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7.—Fire of unknown origin which started on the third floor of the new Salvation army hall, 106 West Reno Avenue, about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, caused damage estimated to be $30,000. Salvation army officials is in the process of construction, is insure, but they do not know the amount of the policy.

D. E. Huffman, contractor in charge of the building work, said the cause of the fire is a mystery. The only solution, he said, seems to be the old story of boys and matches. Huffman declared there were no explosives in the building and no shavings or trash. The only material within the skeleton building was heavy lumber.

Spectacular Sight for Crowd.

The fire afforded a spectacular sight for thousands of people, just leaving their work, the crowd soon became so thick in the vicinity of the burning building that the efforts of a squad of policemen was necessary to clear up space enough to enable the firemen to work. The alarm was answered by every fire company in the city. Thousands of feet of hose line were stretched and streams of water were poured on the burning building from all sides.

After the fire was practically under control the walls of the building in the rear and on both sides cracked and it was thought at first that the structure would tumble. It is the opinion of the contractor that the walls of the two top stories will have to be replaced.

Col. George Wood, in charge of the Salvation army post here, was in Okmulgee last night and other officers of the post were unable to reach him.

The Salvation army at present is located temporarily at 120 West Grand avenue. Work on the new building has been in progress since last September. It was hoped that the hall could be occupied by the middle of June.

Workers at the building had been away only a few minutes yesterday afternoon when the fire started.

Auditorium May be Used.

All of the brickwork on the structure had been completed. Skeleton partitions had been built and the fire walls were to be started today.

Mrs. Kate Wilson, captain of the post, said yesterday it is impossible to announce the army's plans as yet. It was planned to have a thirty-piece Salvation army band in the city early in May and it was thought that the assembly hall of the new building could be used. Steps will be taken now to obtain the city auditorium for the purpose.

About a year ago a sum of $60,000 was raised in Oklahoma City by the Salvation army for the construction of the building. One of the officials said yesterday that the lot upon which the structure is located and building itself are worth nearly $100,000.

The building in which the fire occurred, when observed from the front, gave little evidence that a destructive fire had taken place. The sides and rear of the structure, however, give mute testimony of the disastrous fire.

A Flash and Man Vanisher.

Peace has its horrors more terrible than war. Last week an employee of the Frick Coke Company in Pennsylvania jumped out of the way of a runaway motor truck and landed in a live coke oven. His fellow workmen merely saw a flash of his body and a puff of smoke. No trace of his body could be discovered.

A few years ago something went wrong at one of the great steel mills where they roll out white-hot rails and girders and a great beam of glowing metal wrapped itself around workman and seared the life out of him in a moment. At another of the great steel plants there is a huge boulder of steel and iron which has for years been the sarcophagus of an immigrant steel worker. A blast furnace exploded, or overflowed, and he was engulfed in its molten contents. His body undoubtedly was more completely annihilated than if it had been placed in the retort of a crematory, and this boulder of slag and iron will be his grave and monument until doomsday.

VARIATIONS SHOWN IN FACE

In many instances it will be found that a person's features are not at all regular, says London Answers.

When photographed with only one side of the face showing, for instance, it is sometimes surprising how unlike the person the portrait appears to be. The cheek on one side will, in a number of cases prove to be more rounded than the opposite one, while the difference in the ears is often remarkable.

If an upright line were drawn through the center of the face, marked variations would be seen. The forehead on one side would sometimes look higher than the other.

The eyebrows as well differ in length, and on one side perhaps their curve would be greater than on the opposite side. The right eye in a number of cases will be not only a little larger, but also the color will vary in shade. The top lids, too, will differ materially—the bottom lids being more noticeable in their unlikeness.

Then the mouth has its irregularities. The movements of the under lip on the one side are in direct contrast to the other, and this is noticed when a person is speaking.

The nose likewise is not alike both sides, and a careful study will discover a difference in the nostrils. Sometimes one is larger than the other, and by putting a ruler across the face just under the nose, and scrutinizing the top of the face, these variations will be seen.

REAL USE FOR "BEST MAN"

In Other Times, He Was Not, as Today, Merely a Lay Figure at the Wedding.

An outcome of the primitive procedure of seizing another man's bride at the altar was the comparatively recent custom in Sweden that marriage take place only after dark. The early Scandinavian idea was that it was not dignified for a warrior to woo a woman. Therefore he waited until she had been successfully courted by another, and then, when the marriage was about to take place, he appeared with his companions to carry off the bride.

Knowing the danger, a prospective bridegroom took measures to prevent his prize from being snatched away from him at the eleventh hour. Behind the altar of an ancient church at Husaby, Gothland, is an old collection of long lances, with sockets for torches, which illustrates the methods of defense resorted to. These were supplied to the groomsmen to furnish protection as well as illumination for the ceremony.

All these groomsmen were called "best men" because they were the most powerful of the bridegroom's friends. But there was one special "best man" to protect his friend's bride, as he would help him steal another's. And it is in this capacity of protection rather than as accessory before the fact that the best man has come down through time and stands up at your wedding today.

Workers at the building had been away only a few minutes yesterday afternoon when the fire started.

CALIFORNIA IS DEEP IN POLITICS

THREE ELECTIONS, ALL OF WHICH LEADERS CONSIDER OF MORE OR LESS IMPORTANCE.

By the Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—California voters face an unusually busy political year. There will be three elections, all of which are regarded by parties as being of more than ordinary importance. These elections and their dates are the presidential primary, May 4; the state primary, August 24, and the general election, November 2.

At the presidential primary the voters will be given an opportunity of balloting for candidates as delegates to the national conventions on one of the three tickets—Republican, Democratic and Prohibition. On the two latter tickets the delegates, of which there are twenty-six, will be unopposed, except for the independent candidacy on the Democratic ticket of Henry H. Childers, the president of an oil company, of Los Angeles. Mr. Childers said recently, in explanation of his candidacy, that "since the Democratic State Central Committee did not see fit to put his name on the regular ticket, he would try his luck because he wanted to go to the national convention."

The Republican ticket will present a contest between rival delegations pledged to support respectively the candidacies at the national convention of United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of San Francisco, and Herbert C. Hoover, of Palo Alto, Cal., former United States food administrator.

In August the state primaries will be in the nature of an elimination contest, with United States senatorial the most important of the various positions to be voted on. Senator James D. Phelan is a candidate to succeed himself, but half a dozen or more candidates have declared their intention of entering the race.

The ballot will be a long one with the offices of a United States senator and eleven congressional representatives to be voted on.

BARTENDERS NOW TURN TO PUBLIC LIBRARY FOR AID

NEW YORK, April 7.—Hundreds of former bartenders, thrown out of work by the advent of national prohibition, has turned to the public library and to the American Library Association for aid in solving the problem of earning a living. Requests by the score have been made for books which would enable these men to learn some profession or trade for removed from the type in which they had been engaged, and these calls have been met not only with the proper books but with advice as to reading and study courses.

In its "Books for Everybody" movement now under way, the American Library Association is laying much stress on the feature of self-education through libraries and books, and in consequently in a position to do much for those whose jobs ended with the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment. Most of the men who seek aid, apparently have turned to outdoor pursuits, poultry raising, and gardening attracting a large majority. The trades also have their quota of adherents as shown in the demand for books on technical subjects.

The Enlarged Program of the Association includes preparation by skilled librarians of study and reading courses for the benefit of those who seek the light of broader knowledge through books. It aims, with the aid of other library agencies, chiefly at opening the avenues of self instruction to the 60,000,000 persons in the United States who have inadequate opportunity of obtaining educational and informative books. To carry on the program during the next three years, a fund of $2,000,000 is being obtained, not through an intensive drive, but by the individual efforts of librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries.

Coaching a Young Doctor

A coming young physician in Kansas City was recently left in charge of an old doctor's practice while he took an enforced vacation. The young man was deprecating his lack of experience in the final few minutes before the old doctor took the train. "Nonsense," said the old man forcefully, "you don't need experience with fashionable patients. They are as simple as a, b, c. Find out what they have been eating and stop it. See what they have been doing and tell them not to. Ask them where they are going for the holidays—and send them somewhere else." Then the old doctor grabbed his hat and left.

Helped by their Names.

The names of Armand Hubka, Eloise, Dannefer, Thelma Sjolander and Goldie Svatavolsky lead the list of a Kansas country's best spellers. Perhaps if the Smith and Brown children had a first class Norwegian middle-name they would spell better.

CLING TO OLD OBSERVANCE

People of Normandy Today, as for Centuries, Delight in Their Little Epiphany Cakes.

Norman cities and towns that have for centuries perpetuated their quaint observance of the Epiphany cake and eat their little cakes with joyful hearts. The custom is ancient and charming, an affair of children and colored lanterns parading the streets of ancient towns and singing an ancient song in piping voices; and where they go, well-disposed citizens open their doors and distribute cakes. Except in a few places the custom has gradually gone out, but here and there it continues, and carries with it the odd and interesting history of the Epiphany cakes. French bakers and pastry cooks began making them at least as long ago as 1700, and in those days the family that bought a cake ate of it and gave part of it to the children when they came singing the song that has now become ancient. In 1713, says the record, there was great dispute between the bakers and the pastry cooks as to which had the right to bake the Epiphany cakes; the grave question was taken to the parliament of Paris, which, after proper deliberation, decided in favor of the pastry cooks. In 1740, one does not know why, the privilege was taken away from the pastry cooks and given the bakers. Then in the time of the first republic the festival was abolished; a decree of the seventeenth Nivose, year II, by which the revolutionary determination for change designated January 6, 1794, declared that the custom commemorated the memory of the "last tyrant," Louis XVI. In 1801 the festival and the cakes were legally restored, and so the custom comes down, here and there, into the twentieth century.

SEES BACK OF THE CLOUDS

Uncle Hiram Refuses to Be Down-hearted Because the Weather Is Not Just Right.

"Yes, this is a lovely day," my gloomy friend says to me, looking out at the dark, lowering clouds and the steadily falling rain, and meaning, of course, exactly the opposite of what he says; but then said Uncle Hiram, I say to him:

"Well, we've been having lots of beautiful weather, haven't we?" and that is really the way it strikes me.

Cold, dark, rainy days don't worry me a bit; not the least little bit. On such days I recall the bright sunny days that have gone before, and dwell on them. In fact, I store up out of them enough sunshine to last me through a longer period of stormy weather than any I have ever met yet. As I look out of my window at the present moment, why, back of the clouds that to my gloomy friend seem so dark and dismal I can see the white fleecy clouds of yesterday and the blue sky and the bright sunshine and I know that we shall actually have all those things again soon. There never was a storm yet but what cleared off some time, was there? Never! And this one will be gone before you know it.

As a matter of fact, I like weather, it doesn't disturb me, not a bit; it's just an appetizer for the bright days that I know are sure to come.

First American Composer.

Judge Francis Hopkinson, signer of the Declaration of Independence, jurist, inventor, artist, poet, essayist, scholar, organist, composer and first graduate of the class of 1757 of the University of Pennsylvania, is known as the first American composer. Judge Hopkinson was especially noted as a composer of fetching songs for the harpsichord. In 1788 he published seven songs dedicated to his friend, George Washington. In the quaint fashion of his day, he wrote: "However small the reputation may be that I derive from this work, I cannot, I believe, be refused the credit of being the first Native of the United States who has produced a Musical Composition. If this attempt be not too severely treated, others may be encouraged to venture on a path yet untraveled in America, and the Arts in succession will take root and flourish among us."

Odd Phone Experiments.

One of the greatest blessings and sometimes one of the greatest worries is the telephone. But it is not always looked upon as a source of amusement—by trying the transmitter on various parts of the body even this is obtained.

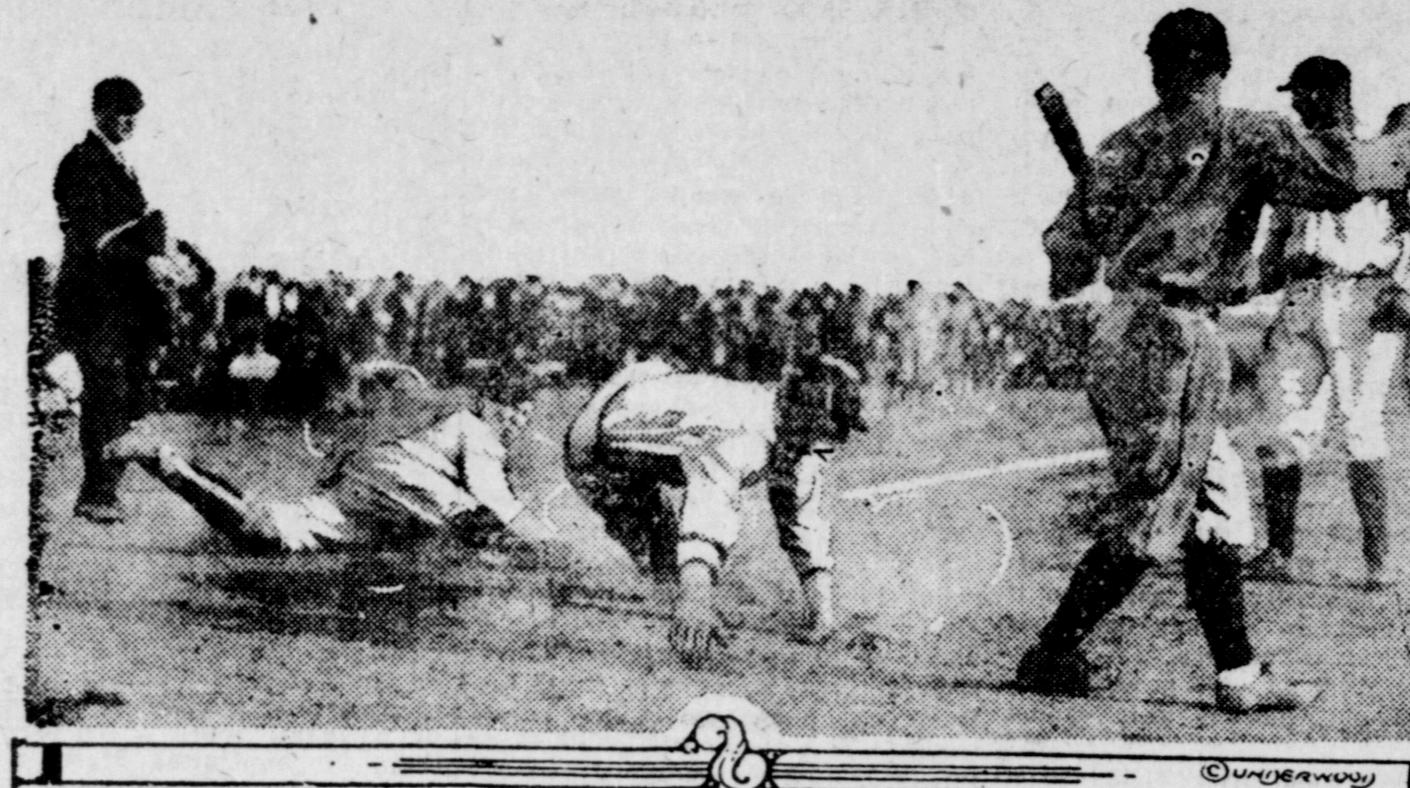

If you put the transmitter on the chest and speak in the usual tones the listener will hear the message almost as clearly as if it were sent in the usual way.

Again, if the transmitter be pressed firmly against the kneecap the message is heard quite as distinctly, but it is only faintly audible if the transmitter be put to the heel.

Persia a Barren Land.

A large part of Persia is absolute desert. Much of the remainder is so scantily supplied with water that it is almost empty of human life. If Persia is imagined as chiefly a rich land of rose gardens, palms and nightingales the mental picture is fanciful in the extreme. No such vision is justified, even by the poets of Persia. The Rubaiyat has a good deal to say about roses, but it does not forget "the desert's dusty face" nor hide "the strip of herbage strown" which so narrowly divides the desert and the sown."

BOY! PAGE ANOTHER MIRACLE MAN; THE BOSTON BRAVES ARE BADLY IN NEED OF ONE

This photo taken during a practice game a few days ago at Columbus, Ga., between the Braves and Tigers, shows Hank Gowdy, one of the Braves' few stars, reaching out to put ball on Tiger runner who overslid the plate. Donie Bush, at bat, has stepped clear of the play and is seen with bat at the right. The umpire is Finneran.

Unless another Miracle Man or a Good Samaritan bobs up between now and the middle of the big league season, the Braves may be forced to take the cellar apartment from the National League landlord.

Manager Stallings, who pulled the Miracle Man stunt in 1914, and George Washington Grant, new owner, did their darndest all winter long to pry loose some new material from the other big league clubs, but nothing doing. Every club owner with whom the Brave chiefs did business was perfectly, as so willing, to trade players. All they asked was that Rabbit Maranville be one of the men in Boston's end of the trio.

Stallings figured that his pitching staff, consisting of Dick Rudolph, Oescher, Dan Fillingim, "Red" Causey, John Paul Jones and Scott, would do fairly well. Then Jones, a promising youth, announced that he had decided to flirt with stocks and bonds instead of base hits and critical umpires. Causey became dissatisfied and Stallings was forced to get rid of him, letting him go to the Phils at the waiver price. Gene Packard, ex-Philly, was another bet Stallings had, but he decided to retire. (Oh, the poor baseball slaves.) So George now has Rudolph, Oescher and Fillingim and one or two rookies—untried and untempered. Scott and Morgan, a New England star, are the only fair bets he has among his rookies.

Grant would make it clear that he was trying to trade a few players, not a team, and call off the deal.

To make matters worse, two or three youngsters Stallings had hoped would deliver, quit the game entirely.

Walter Holke at first, Charley Pick at second, and Norman Boeckel at third form only a fair trio to work with the Rabbit.

The outfield, Cruise, Mann and Powell—carries no banners. They field well and bat medium well. But that lets 'em out. Maranville, as captain of the crew, will give them valuable aid in playing for the batter. Maranville is vastly more of a student of players than any of the trio.

Maranville. But, as said before, Maranville is the bird sought.

Unless another miracle happens, the Braves will be an also-ran outfit this year.

A PROSPECTOR'S SENSE OF HUMOR GIVES TOWN NAME

By the Associated Press

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., April 7.—A prospector's curious sense of humor was responsible for the naming of this town which recently has gotten into the news dispatches because of the Bisbee deportation trials being held here.

According to James E. Duncan, who came here in 1879, the town was founded in that year by Ed Scheiffelin, a mining prospector.

Scheiffelin called his mine near the site of the present court house "Tombstone Mine," Duncan said, because the region was full of drab rocks that resembled tombstones.

Tradition had it, however, that Scheiffelin's friends frequently rallied him for his faith in the locality and told him that he would find his tombstone here. After the pros-

FAMILY ON VERGE OF STARVATION SAVED BY JEWISH RELIEF WORKERS

This picture tells more vividly than words the terrible poverty and suffering that exists among Europe's war sufferers. This mother and her two children were dying from starvation when rescued by Jewish relief workers. General admission to each group of events will be 25c for adults and 15 cents for the school children.

pector had made his fortune here, in good natured irony, he is said to have named the town after the fate that had been predicted for him.

Scheiffelin was found dead in a log cabin in the state of Washington, May 12, 1897. According to his wishes, his body was brought back to his "tombstone" and buried near here. His pick-ax and other tools were buried with him. Above the grave his friends erected a simple monument, fashioned after the rude manner of a prospector's claim stake—merely a pile of unevenly shaped rocks.

ON THE POLITICAL SIGN BOARD

Political fixers will do well to study the sign board set up at the Michigan cross roads. The Johnson landslide in the peninsular state was an ominous protest against the dollar in politics. Charges of unlimited expenditure of money in elections have come in monotonous succession and reached a climax in the sensational speech of Senator Borah in the United States Senate. Whether these charges are true or exaggerated matters little just now so far as results are concerned—the people believe them and are prepared to defeat any candidate whose payroll appears suspicious. This is the lesson of the Michigan primary, and political leaders should take notice that while they may be sufficiently strong to manipulate conventions it will be entirely another matter when it comes to electing their candidates at the polls.

Nearer home there is a lesson to be learned from the municipal elections in Oklahoma. A new element has entered the political field of Oklahoma and that element is the woman voter. Wherever the appeal for civic righteousness was made in Tuesday's election, that appeal was headed by the women. Tulsa overthrew a Democratic administration and Wagoner did the same thing. The result in both cities was due to a protest against alleged unrighteousness and it was the votes of women that wrought the change. Political machines may continue to manipulate primaries and fix conventions as they have always done, but it will not be easy to get away with their machinations when they come to the polls. Machine politicians had just as well realize that rotten government and boss rule in our cities have got to go. The result in Tuesday's elections gives ample warning of that fact.

The election in Pawhuska was a splendid victory for common sense in civic matters. By a four to one vote the capital of Osage County adopted the managerial form of government. Here as always the machine made a desperate fight for its life. The election was enjoined and the matter fought out in the supreme court. Finally the citizens won the right to vote on the proposition and adopted the plan by a decisive majority. Thus they approve a plan that will presently become the only known form of municipal government in the country.

Next week the district field and track meet will be pulled off in Ada. The big event will bring to Ada hundreds of contestants and visitors. An appeal has been issued by the Auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce asking the people of Ada to open their homes to the city's guests. This will be cheerfully done, for Ada has never yet failed to observe every requirement of hospitality. It will have to be done, if all the out of town people who visit Ada find a place to stay. But it will require some little work and a lot of attention. The public must not forget. Let everyone who has a spare room inform Mr. Wilson of the Normal or the Auxiliary of that fact and let the room be placed at the disposal of the proper parties. Do this today while the subject is fresh in your mind. The coming meet promises to be the most successful ever held in Ada. Let's help in making it a pronounced success. Let's go.

At a recent meeting of the Anti-Cigarette League it was decided that 1925 be fixed as the year by which time an effort will be made to abolish the manufacture of cigarettes. A campaign is to be started at once for $100,000 to carry on the work. Now is the time to get in on the ground floor. If you are a broken down politician or a discredited professional man, you can get a good job at fancy prices campaigning the country inveighing against the unspeakable evil of permitting other people to mind their own business.

The national government built a water plant at a cost of $8,000,000 and gave it to the people of Washington. It never cost the people of Washington a penny. The national government then issued government bonds and paid off the public indebtedness of Washington. That debt amounted to $40,000,000.

Few people seem to know that the general government pays one half of the expenses of municipal government in Washington. It costs each congressional district on an average of $3,000 a year to maintain the city government in Washington.

Do the people know that the country pays one half the cost of every school building, hospital, court house, and jail in Washington?

LIFTS HANDICAP FROM DEAF MORE THAN GREAT PAINTER

Knowledge of Lip Reading Restores Afflicted to Their Place in the Industrial World.

Deafness is a tribulation, but its effects are more psychological than physical. Deaf men as a rule have less difficulty in getting jobs than have men with more obvious handicaps. The real handicap in deafness is that it is more calculated to inspire impatience than sympathy, and as a consequence, deaf men grow suspicious, irritable and complaining. The deaf man is a trial to himself and to the world, and he walks quite alone. Communication is the one thing that can restore him to normal contacts.

In order to effect this the Modern Hospital advocates lip reading as his immediate necessity and salvation if he is to maintain a wholesome place in the world of industry.

A peculiarity of speech reading is that a person who can hear, cannot learn it.

There is a wide variety of industrial conditions which contribute to deafness. Because of these hazards, the industrially employed form an extensive problem. Without training they are not only liable to discomfort and unpopularity, but they are a source of risk because of their inability to understand orders. From two points of view the deaf have a great need for a knowledge of lip reading, and should learn it at all costs. It fits them for an independent, useful career in industry, and in many ways re-establishes an intimate connection with normal life.

ROMAN ROADS NOT PERFECT

Suitable for Traffic of That Time, but Would Not Last Under Modern Conditions.

Modern opinion, examining the road-building of the Romans and comparing it with that of today, has reached conclusions which seriously diminish the reputation of the Roman engineers, or at any rate show that they built to meet the conditions of a certain kind of traffic. They built for endurance, but their roads, say these surprising critics, were so rough that modern vehicles would be shaken to pieces on them in short order. If Julius Caesar had driven a motor car along the Appian Way, so suggests Motor Life, the journey would have shaken him out of his armor, shaken his plumed helmet off his head, and presently have shaken his motor into a worthless wreck. The criticism comes from a study of the construction of the old Roman roads; but from what one knows of the Romans, one may feel reasonably certain that if Caesar had been wont to go about in an automobile the Roman engineers would have built roads that would have made motoring less exciting and expensive. And the Roman chariot, one may imagine, bumped in moderation because its pace was limited to match that of the marching legions.

Sounds Improbable.
Scientists will hardly accept the statement at the inquest on a man killed by lightning that "an exact impression of the tree under which he was sheltering" was found on the victim's body. It is incredible that even the power of a lightning flash is of sufficient intensity to imprint an image through opaque clothing. And, if it were, a person would surely have to be a considerable distance from so large an object as a tree for the angle it subtends to be small enough to enable its photograph to be recorded on the body.

The most reasonable explanation of these phenomena is that the lightning causes extravasation of blood from the blood vessels beneath the skin thus rendering visible the treelike ramifications of the venous system. It would have been interesting to note under what kind of tree the unfortunate man was sheltering. For, if one must take shelter (it is far wiser to take a soaking) one's chances of safety depend largely upon the sort of tree beneath which one elects to stand.

Sailors' Superstitions.
Time was when sailors would not think of sailing without a charm or pocket piece of some kind to ward off bad luck. Wind beads were a favorite and in nearly every port were maidens to sell them.

Tattoos were considered essential for bon voyage, especially the butterfly on the shoulder predominated for good luck. A pig tattooed on the foot was assurance the man would never drown, and sailors say not a man is known to have drowned who he possessed this significance of charm against fate.

And so the old sailor, by the hour, could spin yarns and point to strange fate inexplicable disaster always laid at the door of superstition.

Work Together to Take Fish.

The best example of company fishing is furnished by some of our North American fresh-water pelicans. Flocks of 30 to 50 pelicans may sometimes be seen fishing in the very shallow waters of a lake shore or drying river. They spread out in a thin semi-circular skirmish line in the water a few inches deep and then advance with flapping wings toward still more shallow water, driving schools of frightened fishes before them. Soon the fishes are so crowded the pelicans can wade in among them and scoop them up in the great pouches beneath the beaks. Such dipnet fishing is very effective.

Gustave Dore Is Declared to Have More Than Great Painter

Gustave Dore Is Declared to Have Been an Accomplished Player on the Violin.

Gustave Dore (the painter) was said to be famous on the violin, and his claims to consideration were far from incon siderable. He had acquired a valuable instrument, on which he used to play Berlioz's concertos with a really extraordinary facility and spirit. These superficial works were enough for his musical powers. The surprising thing about his execution was that he never worked at it. If he could not get a thing at once, he gave it up for good and all.

We lived in the same quarter and visited each other frequently. As we almost never were of the same opinion about anything, we had interminable arguments, entirely free from rancor, which we thoroughly enjoyed. I have seen him painting away on thirty canvases at the same time in his immense studio. Three seriously studied pictures would have been worth more.

At heart this great, overgrown, jovial boy was melancholy and sensitive. He died young of heart disease, aggravated by grief over the death of his mother, from whom he had never been separated. I dedicated a slight piece written for the violin to Dore. It would be entirely unknown had not Johannes Wolf, the violinist of queens and empresses, done me the favor of placing it in his repertory and bringing his fine talent to its aid.—"Anecdotes" by Saint-Saens.

WHERE PEDDLER IS SUPREME

In Lithuania People Almost Everywhere Are Dependent on the Traveling Merchant.

The peddler, who has almost disappeared entirely in American farming communities, is still a very important institution in Lithuania. His outfit there is a veritable department store. His customers are dependent upon him for nearly everything they buy. They built to meet the conditions of a certain kind of traffic. They built for endurance, but their roads, say these surprising critics, were so rough that modern vehicles would be shaken to pieces on them in short order.

Everything the peasant home in Lithuania is not able to produce must be brought many miles. Railroads are few. And so, through the peddlers, with their surprisingly varied stock in trade, Lithuanian mothers do their own shopping at their own doorsteps. These peddlers come to the peasant's cottage with linen goods, fancy cloth for dresses, handkerchiefs, aprons, combs and brushes, stationery, trinkets, hardware, household utensils, sugar, salt, soap and even shoe blacking.

If cash is to be had, the peddlers accept it readily, but they are just as ready to barter soap for some home-made linen, or sugar for native needlework.

Grand Pre.
The Evangeline district of Nova Scotia is best seen by driving out from the town of Wolfville, which stands on the southern shores of Minas Basin. A drive of from ten to twelve miles will give the visitor a fair idea of the whole countryside. Passing over a ridge near the town, the visitor comes to the Gaspeau valley and the lake that gives the valley its name. Gaspeaux is the French name of alewives, kind of herring which abound in these waters. On all sides are orchards and off to the left at the foot of a small ridge is the hamlet of Grand Pre. The site of the old French village, close to the railway station, is marked by a clump of willows, an old well, and the cellars of a few cottages. From this point the visitor may drive to the north, across the expanse of fertile-dyed meadow that gave name to the village.

Famous Woman Orator.
Mary A. Livermore was born in Boston, Mass., Dec. 19, 1821. She was not more than 11 or 12 years old when she conceived the idea of helping her parents by some definite occupation. She learned to sew, and made flannel shirts at 6½ cents apiece. Regarded by the pastor of her church as a prodigy, at the age of 14 she was sent by him to the Charlestown Female Seminary, where she soon ranked with the best scholars in the institution ever had. At the age of 20 she was placed in charge of the Duxbury high school, Mass., a position of unusual rank for a woman at that time. With the outbreak of the Civil war in 1861 she became an organizer in woman's war work. In 1863 she made her first public address at Dubuque, Iowa. Her wonderful talents as an orator were immediately recognized, and her fame as a speaker soon became nation-wide.

Pupil Used His Head.

The sergeant instructor was suspicious and angry. "Why aren't you working out the sum—you've got a pen and paper, haven't you?" he demanded.

The pupil replied that he supposed the only thing required was the answer, and he had furnished it, and so saved paper.

"Yes, but where did you get the answer from—who told you?" he was asked by the puzzled instructor. "I did it in my head," he was assured.

"Oh, that's simply swank!" retorted his master. But in course of time he found that his "pupil" did know something of the matter in hand—and promoted him. "You shall read out the sum to the rest," he said.—London Chronicle.

The Interchurch World Movement Is Welcomed In Ada

the recent war. The men at the head of it say that Christianity is the balm that will make the world safe for democracy, safe for property, safe for life, safe for liberty. A world survey has been made as to the best means of placing this Christian spirit over the world. A campaign to raise some $336,000,000 for the first five years' work will be made in the United States the week of April 25 to May 2d. Practically all Protestant denominations have a part in this and all nations of men without church affiliation will help. The Ada district will be managed by teams from all the churches and it is expected that the drive will go "over the top" in great shape.

Among the out of town visitors attending the meeting of the Inter-Church World movement were Rev. Frank Naylor, pastor Methodist church of Caddo; Rev. Lanning, pastor at Francis; Rev. J. C. Crowson, Wapanucka; Rev. H. E. Berg of Pryor, director of the work in this district; Rev. A. R. Johnson of Madill; Rev. I. M. Bryce, Mansville and Rev. Mosley of Madill.

PROVIDE SHELTER FOR SHEEP

Exposure to Wind and Storms Is Cause of Much Loss—Protection Is Not Costly.

Great sheep losses come through exposure to wind and storm. In all parts of the country farms that have sheep on them will do well to provide shelter from bad weather. These do not cost so much as to have the sheep die in the cold and wet. If we had all the money that is lost in sheep in any one year through exposure to storm we would be far richer than we are.

Through the Soul's Eyes.

Physical eyes may measure the possibilities that return effort in terms of dividends, but it takes vision of the soul to become a benefactor to your fellows. Effort for personal gain must be selfish beyond measure if it does not benefit more than the first actor.

Even when it does not seem to be a help to anyone there are reflexes that are sure to reach men in various walks of life. But the world needs the work of the greater man. He may seem mediocre to his fellows. They may even coddle themselves into imagining their own superiority. What he does will show the difference. Intuitively he will sense the need of the times and without seeming to patronize he will make people appreciate him as friend.

KEEP'S ONLY PUREBRED SIRE

Veteran of New London County, Connecticut, Used Registered Sires 39 Years.

I have kept registered sires for 39 years," writes Lloyd E. Ayer of New London, Conn., in applying to the United States department of agriculture for enrollment in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign. Mr. Ayer is a breeder of Holstein cattle, Percheron horses, Berkshire swine and poultry.

This record of using purebred sires since 1880—more than one-third of a century—was especially noteworthy since the emblem of official recognition granted him was the first to be issued in the new year.

Estimated That Between 500,000 and 600,000 Head Have Been Shipped Out of State.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An unusually large movement of cattle out of Montana has taken place in 1919, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry. Normally, the movement of cattle from this state is between 200,000 and 300,000 head annually. It is estimated that between 500,000 and 600,000 have been shipped out for all purposes. Figures are not available for a similar comparison in regard to sheep, but reports from representatives of the department in the field indicate that between 400,000 and 500,000 sheep of all classes of range stock were moved out of the Northwest for feeding and grazing in sections east and west of the drought area.

These animals went first into the available nearby pasture lands in the Dakotas and Nebraska. Later they were moved into the middle cornbelt states, into Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the upper peninsula of Michigan, and still later into Texas and New Mexico. The movement into the two latter states continued on into November. The heavy snowfall that occurred early in the season overtook some ranchmen who were taking chances on the weather and they found it necessary to move their herds quickly. It is thought that enough road car cars were made available to fill all orders. Stock cars moving west were given preference over dead freight.

Information that has reached the department indicates that the movement of cattle into New Mexico and Texas has been satisfactory, and with certain exceptions, the same holds true with respect to Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Reports indicate that a considerable movement of

DAFFY-DOWN-DILLY
FROCK OF TAFFETA
FOR APRIL DANCES

By Eloise.

Just like the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, are the new taffeta dance frocks for the post-lenten affairs. They stand out in their crisp daintiness and freshness just like the woodland flowers and they show all the dainty colors of the wild blossoms of spring. It is a relief after the heavily embroidered satins, the brocades, the beaded fabrics, the velvets and other winter evening gowns to see these pretty taffetas appear on the scene.

Charming indeed is this frock made of yellow taffeta. Folds over the hips and a perky little plenum on the quaint little blouse give the popular bouffant effect so popular just now. These folds are faced with geranium which shows just a tiny bit and gives an attractive color effect. The brief little sleeves are a piquant touch which is quite pleasing after the long siege of sleeveless gowns. The hip panels used on the frock are a notable feature. They are made of yellow net embroidered in silver and show a novel whim by extending below the regular line of the skirt.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

The secret of success is not a secret. Nor is it something new. Nor is it something hard to secure. To become more successful, become more efficient. Do the little things better. So work that you will require less supervision. The least supervision is needed by the person who makes the fewest mistakes.
Do what you can and what you should do for the institution for which you are working, and do it in the right way, and the size of your income will take care of itself. Let your aim ever be to better the work you are doing. But remember always that you cannot better the work you are doing without bettering yourself.

BITTERNESS IN G. O. P. RANKS

BORAH, HIMSELF A REPUBLICAN, SAYS REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES SPEND TOO MUCH.

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, April 8. — The charges of Senator William E. Borah, republican, of Idaho, that at least two of the republican candidates for the presidency are spending vast sums of money in their campaigns and that an attempt is being made to control the party convention by the use of money, has created a panic situation in the G. O. P. ranks. Unless the differences in the party can be smoothed down republicans fear that the Borah charges will react against the party in the campaign next fall, no matter who is nominated.

Senator Borah's latest telegram to General Leonard Wood demands that he make public a list of his contributions and expenditures and informs that candidate that unless he familiarizes himself with what is going on in his behalf and corrects conditions "you will bring disgrace upon your name, upon your party and your country."

The Idaho senator has also called for a showdown on the amount of money being spent by the Lowden campaign managers. Governor Lowden has agreed to submit to an audit of his books and Senator Borah is endeavoring to arrange for an inspection early in April.

Press dispatches state you claim the attack made upon you was to sway the voters of Michigan. You are in part correct. It was intended to sway the voters not only in Michigan but in the United States. I know of no other tribunal to which to appeal to correct these practices. But it can only be effected provided the facts I stated are correct.

It is within your power to give to the people of Michigan and other states a list of your subscribers, the amount you are expending, the amount which you did expend in South Dakota, the amount which you proposed to spend in Ohio and Illinois.

If you will make a statement of these facts over your signature I will correct any erroneous statements I have heretofore made. The material which is coming from South Dakota, Illinois and Ohio convinces me that I was modest in my statements.

"General Wood, if you are not familiar with what is going on in your behalf for the presidency, I take leave to assert that unless you familiarize yourself and correct it, it will bring disgrace upon your name, upon your party and your country.

"It is up to you as a soldier and a man to come out bold and meet these facts and either show the public that they are unfounded, or else repudiate the men who have manifested their determination to control the national convention through the use of money."

This telegram from one republican to another reveals the bitterness now prevailing in the G. O. P. ranks. Practical politicians of the party fear the effects upon the morale of the organization and it is exceedingly distasteful to them to have a "money scandal" injected into the campaign so early.

Chairman Durbin of the Ohio state democratic committee, charged as early as last November that the republicans were preparing to raise a great "slush fund" for use in the general elections. At that time, however, it was not anticipated that candidates for the nomination would focus public attention upon the use of money so many months in advance of the November elections.

Senator Borah will attempt to get prompt consideration in the senate of the bill he introduced providing that the campaign publicity law shall apply to presidential candidates and their pre-convention expenses.

This bill was the outgrowth of reports which Senator Borah said he regarded as entirely reliable that large sums of money are being expended on behalf of certain republican candidates for the presidential nomination.

The Efficiency of Advertising

What would be the business condition in a place where the merchants had never formed the habit of advertising, if such could be found?

The first characteristic of such a place, would be an absence of competitive spirit. The incentives to activity and hustle would be removed. If a merchant made a special effort, and as a result of his energy, forethought, and enterprise, secured a lot of goods representing exceptionally good values, he could not hope to sell them. Without advertising, the public would not know he had them.

Without advertising, the public would continue to buy of merchants where they had always bought before, regardless of the fact that in some other place they could take advantage of a specially favored opportunity. The result of a community policy of non-advertising, therefore, is to discourage enterprise, and to encourage distributors to continue along in the same rut year after year.

ADVERTISING TO SAVE COST

Wm. DEE LITTLE

Advertising is almost an American institution. The European countries have not approached the United States in the number of newspapers, magazines and other periodicals, population considered, or the character or volume of advertising. In France the publications will accept pay for matter in the news or editorial columns. This was once done by some American newspapers, but aside from being contrary to law now, publishers have found that such practices lower the standing of the publications and consequently injure instead of make business.

Before the war in Germany the publications accepted advertising from questionable rooming houses, quack medicines, fake promotions, and such other firms as some of the cheapest of American periodicals now take. The result was that honest business men did not like to do business with such papers. A man who is absolutely square does not like to have his advertising placed alongside of a fake promotion advertisement. It lessens the punch of the legitimate business.

In England the business men have been conservative from time immemorial, so conservative that they were content to let well enough alone and did not care to venture into new fields. In all of these countries the rates for advertising have been greatly above those in this country.

Newspapers and magazines first came into existence not for purposes of advertising but to convey information purely of an entertaining nature. The newspaper came to take the place in large communities that the old news runner of ancient times occupied. Men and women became so busy that they could not listen to the human conveyor of news and demanded the printed sheet on which they might read at their leisure.

Gradually there came to the minds of the publisher the idea that they might let those who had a news story of their own business insert such notices in the newspaper and thus get more revenue. The first advertisements were inartistic and hard to read. The New York Herald until about 40 years ago would not permit an advertisement set in type larger than agate, that is, a type not so large as that used for printing the news in the ordinary newspaper or magazine. If an advertiser wanted to use a page he had to have the entire page set in this small, hard to read type.

It was in advertising as in so many other things, that the great West led the way. The country press of the West began to use big advertisements and sell the space for a small amount, thus permitting the merchants and others who had something to sell to get their wares to a buying public quicker, turn their stock with much less loss, and both make more money and sell goods cheaper. In building up the West, the American newspapers and farm journals have played a wonderful part, a more wonderful part than they have been given credit for doing, and much of this building has been by means of advertising.

It was not until 1883 when Joseph Pulitzer, the publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, landed in New York and purchased the New York World that the East woke up to what modern advertising is. Previous to this, newspapers and magazines had been built mainly by individuals. The newspaper was known as the mouthpiece of a certain man, and it was around the individuality of the man that the paper grew. Advertising was purely a side issue. With the introduction of the new methods, the newspapers and magazines ceased to be a one man affair and became a community affair. They ceased to exist purely as personal organs, and became giant businesses with giant organizations and with individuality greater than that of any one man.

Probably the greatest individual advertiser this country has ever seen was P. T. Barnum, the circus man. He used any kind of methods to get before the people. His agent was Tody Hamilton who wrote and got across many fake stories such as wild animals escaping from the shows. These would not be permitted today in any reputable publication, but they got by then. Robert Bonner was the greatest advertiser in New York for a number of years, advertising his weekly magazine, "The New York Ledger."

The dozens of men who have made fortunes in automobile manufacture, in food manufacture, in farm implement manufacture, all owe their success to the use of space in newspapers and magazines. The fame of the Holstein, the Jersey, the Aberdeen-Angus, and in fact any of the better breeds of cattle, hogs or horses, owe their fame to advertising. They are good, but without advertising they could never have been sold for fancy prices. Their value had first to become known.

Any person with good sense and with something to sell that is worth while and has the nerve can succeed with advertising. With good advertising no one with worth while goods to sell has failed.

Advertising is cheaper now than it was a few years ago, in spite of the fact that the increased price of paper, labor and supplies have more than doubled in the last four years. It is cheap because the papers have doubled circulations and in doubling circulations they have not doubled rates.

The last forty years have seen a great improvement in the class of advertising carried by most of the publication. From 1870 to 1900 fake medicine manufacturers made millions by using the space of daily and weekly newspapers. It was the false claims made in these

BASEBALL SEASON WILL OPEN SOON

If present plans of the men in charge do not go astray the 1920 baseball season for Ada will open about the 18th of this month.

The local boys have been practicing for several days and are rounding into shape for some hard battles. Four new men from the professional teams in Texas are expected to arrive next Sunday and as soon thereafter as the men can acquire team work they will be ready for battle. Somer Jones, who was manager last year, says they are planning to have a much better team this year than they have ever had before and they are going in with a determination to win all games they enter. Twelve new uniforms costing $25 each have already arrived to be used by the team.

The games will be played this year as last at the fair grounds. The plan of organizing a corporation to purchase a lot and build a ground for the games was not successful because of inability to get a suitable location and the team will be run as heretofore on what they can make out of the games. The officers of the baseball association for this year have not yet been chosen but this will be done at their next meeting to be held probably this week.
